Mr. Brown explained to Mr. Walker Mr. Brown explained to Mr. Walker that under the ordinances regulating public hackmen, the driver of a vehicle is obliged to take any ordinary person who applies to him to any point within the city limits. The hackman is obliged to serve the first of any number of orderly persons who apply to him for the use of his vehicle. Mr. Walker's vehicles are running between the Cortlandt and the Wall street ferries, and it will be an easy matter, according will be an easy matter, according Brown, to determine whether he and it will be an easy matter, according to Mr. Brown, to determine whether he is operating a stage line or a public hack stand. Neither can he carry any other passenger than the one first employing him without the consent of the first passenger. In case it is found that Mr. Walker is violating any of the provisions of the ordinance the license will be revoked and the case will be referred to the Corporation Counsel for settlement. Mr. Walker said that he understood all of the provisions and that he would see to it that there were enough carriages at the ferries to meet all demands that are made on them.

The city recognizes any vehicle kept for hire as a hack cab and one carrying more than two persons as a hack coach.

fieth Low, President of Columbia Uni-versity, went back to his summer home in Maine yesterday, having transacted the business that brought him to town on Friday. He succeeded in seeing the men whom he wanted to see and in avoiding those he did not want to see. What the business was that brought him to the city no one knows outside of the few men whom he saw, and these are not saying much about it. In fact, yesterday they would not tell whether they had seen him or not, and they would not discuss the reasons for and they would not discuss the reasons for his visit here. Every one who knew the details of the situation politically, however, declared that Mr. Low had been in town to see what was the condition of the boom that has been started for him for the anti-Tammany nomination for Ms or.

In the Low boom there was an interesting development yesterday when it became known that at least six of the men who as members of the Citizens' Union Committee of 107 on Conference, received invitations to submit suggestions for the candidate for the office of Mayor had named Mr. Low as their first choice, and that these men before they sent in Mr. Low's name were asurred that there were a number of other members of the committee who were going to do the same thing. Many of the men who belong to the committee and live in Brooklyn. It was said, had indicated that Low was their first choice for the office, and it was declared that the showing made by his friends in the ballot of the committee would be surprising to those who have thought that there was no sentiment for any one except an independent Democrat. As a matter of fact it was said that two of the men who had sent in the name of Low were Democrats.

When these facts became known it was also said that flore were a number of men.

two of the men who had sent in the name of Low were Democrats.

When these facts became known it was also said that there were a number of men in the Citizens' Union who in 1807 supported Low and made every effort to bring about his election who this year were opposed to him and who thought that he was not an available candidate for the office for which he has been mentioned. These men, as a matter of fact, are not slow to say that they think that Mr. Low would be a bad man to run for the office. There was a story that Mr. Low would make a statement soon in which he would tell what his position was.

GERMANS TALK OVER MALIETOA

Former Samoan Chief Will Return to Apia and Become a German Subject, HONOLULU, Aug. 2, via San Francisco, Aug. 10.-The cruiser Philadelphia, which has arrived here from Pago Pago, Samoa, rival of Mataafa over whose claims for the throne the fighting occurred two years ago, has decided to become a German subject. During the upheaval of two years ago Malietoa's claims were upheld by the Americans and British, while the Germans supported Mataafa. After the division of the Samoan group, Malletoa went to Fji, where he was been ever since, while Mataafa remained in Samoa and holds office under the Germans. The Germans found that the faction lines between the followers of Mataafa and Malletoa remained, and that there is always a possibility of trouble, so it was decided to induce Malletoa to return. Negotiations have been in progress for a long time. They have at last resulted in the decision of the Samoan chief to return to Apia. He will probably get a Government place of some sort and this will appease his former followers. Americans and British, while the Germans

LOOKED AS IF THE LAWYER HAD LEFT THREE WIDOWS.

Referee Bules Out Two American Widows and Declares the English Widow, Who Was the Pirst Wife, to Be Seleiy En-

There could have been few persons who were familiar with Lawyer James H. White-legge, large in form and bone, and known about our courts for many years, who knew that one of the hardest legal nutr under his gray locks was to ascertain where he stood in a matrimonial way. He was sedate and old-fashioned in appearance and manner, and he seemed to be bent on his legal work alone. He got enough of that to be rated at one time at about $100,000. A scramble for the realty he left showed that he was patriarchal enough for Utah. When he died on July 29, 1896 three women took to widows' weeds, each of whom had offspring ascribed to him.
Whitelegge had tried to clear up his domestic atmosphere in 1893 by suing to annul a marriage he admitted he con-tracted with Marietta Losier in 1866. He had three children by her, named Albert T. F. Whitelegge, Edith M. Whitelegge and Mrs. Henrietta Duffy, whose status as to legitimacy he asked the courts to fix in that action. They had resided with him for a number of years in the house 2498 Tiebout avenue, Fordham, which he owned. He said never a word about a prior marriage on his part in that action, but sued riage on his part in that action, but sued on the ground that Mrs. Lozier was not competent to marry at the time, because she was not divorced from Abraham A. Lozier, whom she had married at Franklin N. J., on May 2, 1858. She had obtained a divorce from Lozier on Oct. 20, 1866, but Whitelegge declared that his common-law marriage to her took place earlier in the year 1866. Mrs. Lozier asserted that they were married in November, 1866, after her divorce. This Mrs. Whitelegge, or Lozier, did not know of his prior marriage at the time of the suit he brought against her. She asserted that Whitelegge had been her legal adviser in her suit against Lozier and knew all about her marriage to Lozier. Ignoring this annulment suit, except to make this answer, she brought action against Whitelegge for absolute divorce, declaring that he was guilty with his type-declaring the man his declaring the man his declaring the man his

No search was required to find claimants for his estate, but to the general surprise of those who knew Whitelegge in this city there appeared Prudence Whitelegge, who said she was his widow and had two children by him. Prudence Whitelegge and one of her children were then residing in England. This family have been represented in the subsequent litigations by Evarts, Choate & Beaman. Prudence Whitelegge averred that she had married the lawyer in England on Nov. 5, 1848, and that their children are: Margaretha E. E. Shumay, wife of Henry C. Shumay, residing at the time of her father's death at 86 Clinton avenue, Jersey City, and Thomas Edward Whitelegge residing in England.

Then "came the oratrix," Lulu D. Whitelegge, and declared that she was the only living widow of the decedent Whitelegge and that her son, William Henry Whitelegge, is his only child. This boy is about 9 years old. Lulu D. Whitelegge placed the date of her marriage to Whitelegge on June 26, 1895, at Niagara Falls on the Canada side. NAUTICAL SCHOOL AT MANILA The Students Are Imitative and Have a Retentive Memory.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10 .- The Navy Department has received the report of Lieut. R. H. Townley of his administration of the nautical school at Manilla, from which place he was detached and ordered home. He recommends the use of the Bancroft as a practice ship and says among other

"The students are natives and in general are obedient, zealous, studious and ambitious. Their most marked characteristics are an imitative aptitude and a retentive memory in all practical and mechanical work. The greatest difficulty is in enforcing regularity of attendance, which is so essential in progressive instruction. "I would recommend that hereafter the number of cadets to be admitted be apportioned to the various provinces of the islands in proportion to the population and that the appointments be made by the Governor or by some suitable officer of the province, the appointees to be subject to the general admission examination to be held at that school. As the young men of the entire archipelago are eligible istics are an imitative aptitude and a reten men of the entire archipelago are eligible to admission to the school, this plan, in my opinion, would afford the best means of giving general and equal representation.

"Generations of the siesta habit affect the cadets during the afternoon session. I believe better work could be accomplished by a continuous session of from 7 to 12 or 8 A. M., to 1 P. M., than by the present of the cade of the arrangement of an afternoon and a morning session. This, also would compel the stu-dents to make only one trip from the school during the heat of the day.

800 Pounds of Oll. WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.-The White House has received its biennial coat of paint and looks as good as new. About 2,900 pounds of paint was used, and this was thinned with about 800 pounds of oil and 200 pounds of turpentine. Two coats of paint were given and the material and labor cost about $1,500.

So far as known the old paint has not been scraped from the Executive Mansion, so that there is now a very thick coating of white material all over the outside of the structure, representing the accumulations of a century. The boss painter who super-intended the work this year says that these old coats of paint ought to be scraped and burned off before the house is painted again, but he estimates that this work

GOY. ODBLL TO CHAUTAUQUANS

DISASTROUS TO TEACH THAT POLITICS IS DEGRADING.

Our Government, He Says, Can Be No Purer Than a Majority of its Citizens —Ignorance Provokes Discontent and Educated Ignorance Provokes Anarchy

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Aug. 10.-Gov. Odell came to Chautauqua county this morning, breakfasting with Speaker S. Fred Nixon at Westfield at 8 o'clock and driving thence in company with the Speaker and a few other political friends to Chautauqua, where he delivered an address before an udience of 3,000 persons.

After a few complimentary remarks in regard to the Chautauqua movement

*Our Government can be no purer than a majority of its citizens. When we find those to whom right of control has been given actuated by pure impulses in adninistration of their trust, then we find government by the people in the highest state of perfection. But when we find, on the contrary, parents teaching their chil-dren that politics is degrading, that it is disreputable to participate in the operations of government and that to be known as a politician is to lower one's self in the estimation of one's friends, then the seed of careless disregard for our institutions is sown and the harvest will be disaster to our Republic.
"Our aim should be, through our Chautauqua circles, in our schools and in our colleges, to teach our youth that the first duty of citizenship is the exercise of the divine right guaranteed by our Constitution, through active participation in the selection of their public servants and in deciding upon those policies of government which shall prevail. Government cannot be made perfect any more than the human mind may attain omnipotence but as education advances we can improve upon old methods, and we can demand from our public servants honesty and fidelity, and by the exercise of the elective ecure the highest standard of ability. If, however, as is too often the case, the o-called higher education leads us to forego this right then we deserve misgov-ernment and spoliation and the arraying of one portion of our people against the other.

Ignorance provokes discontent, and if I may be permitted to use the term, 'edu-cated ignorance' provokes anarchy and confusion. Teach our youth that the principles for which our forefathers fought are as dear to them as to those who took part in that great struggle; teach them that the great battles which ended in the that the great battles which ended in the emancipation of the slave are the glory of our country and were but another step in advance in our system of government; imbue them with respect for our flag, teach them that our country is really the home for those who love liberty; that it is truly the refuge for the conversed and that

them that our country is really the home for those who love liberty; that it is truly the refuge for the oppressed, and that it offers equal opportunities to all.

"When you have done that you have given them convictions which no demagogic utterances can dispel. Train them to rebuke extravagance and criticise official actions not in harmony with civic honesty and virtue, and you have educated their minds in the direction of good citizenship and have welded them into this great republic as a part of its useful membership. It is to this work that every loyal citizen should direct his efforts, and to you upon whom so much depends, the great producers of our State, the foundation of all our industries, the makers of our commerce, the appeal falls with the most direct force.

"May the measure of success not only of the Chautauqua Circles but of all our educational institutions be beyond expectation and may education always have as an inspiring theme loyalty to the principles of our fathers, devotion to our home, love of country and an abiding faith in an all-wise God, who has been so generous in His blessings to us."

Gov. Odell left Chautauqua this evening for New York, going on Erie train 10, and will proceed at once from the city to his home at Newburgh.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—According to advices received at the Department of State up to July 3, the revolt on the Island of Quelpart, off the southern coast of Korea, has been suppressed by the Korean Gov-ernment aided by two French gunboats. About 300 persons, principally Christians, were killed in the revolt.

It was ascertained from persons who had been on the island that the revolt was eaused by an attempt to collect increased taxes. The substance of the information received is that the islanders, who are very poor, refused to pay these taxes, and, as inhabitants themselves it was arranged that the Christians, mostly Catholics and presumably exiles, should collect the taxes. conflict occurred and before quiet was restored all the known Christians had been

When the conflict had been precipitated between the people and the tax collectors, the inhabitants collected at the town on the south of the island under the leadership of an ex-Magistrate and marched in two divisions around the island to the town of Chei Chu on the north, driving the Christians before them. Under the name of Christians seem to have been included those who were not natives of the island. The fugitives were driven into Chei Chu, where many were killed.

Two French priests engaged in missionary work on the island are said to have been saved by the insurgent leader until relieved by the arrival of the French gunboat Alouette, which was soon followed by the Korean merchant vessel Hau Sung. bearing 100 Korean troops.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Aug. 10 .- Merchants and coffee growers are greatly roused over the importation by the last teamer of 30,000 pounds of Brazilian coffee. Mass meetings were held in several towns on the island to-day and resolutions adopted that a ban be put on all dealers in and consumers of this coffee. Since the removal of the tariff of five ents a pound on coffee the Brazilian product has been permitted to enter free of duty by way of New York and is resold here at $7, while the cheapest Porto Rican article sells at from $10 to $12. The American Congress alone can remedy this.

The News and Heraldo Espanol appeal the citizens not to buy the Brazilian article and to forestall the invasion by importers. The consignments were received by the steamer Ponce, which arrived here yesterday. The importers have not yet called for the goods, inasmuch as they fear public disfavor. It was reported to-day, owever, that the consignees were Loniba & Co. One of the members of the firm in an interview said they only received the
